

STRATEGIC PLAN

Tingira's Five Year Future Window

Tingira Australia Association President, Lance Ker, released the new five year Strategic Plan for the association today (Nov 12) from his lockdown bunker in central Queensland with the launch of the new Tingira website.

A gathering of Canberra Tingira members and guests were on hand at the Southern Cross Club to witness Warrant Officer of the NAVY - WO(N), Deb Butterworth, launch the new website with the 'Strategic Plan' as one of many valuable detailed documents within the walls of the new website.

President Ker said "It's all about creating something out of nothing, we are getting better at that challenge as an active ex navy association. We dream big and aim blue sky high, that's what our clear thinking is.

"The event and project programs over the next five years displays the future window of opportunity we would like to achieve.

"This document is as exciting as our first decade all combined for which we are about to celebrate in January of 2021.

The committee spent most of the winter months bunkered down in home office situations due to the national virus restrictions in place. The strategic plan is the result of the National Tingira Committee working together on the many ideas and opportunities put on the table. Tingira quarterly committee meetings became part of a 'daily chore' during some weeks, with Email and Facetime mediums into overdrive mode across the airwaves.

"I'm only new to the committee but what a great task at such a low time in our lives. This association has got me so excited, I can't wait for our activities in 2021 to commence" said our resident Victorian committee member Graeme Hunter.
