STEP UP TINGIRA - RECRUITING TIME IS NOW ...

Once again it is my privilege to provide a report as Patron for the Tingira Australia Association (TAA) Annual Report.

It has been a busy and challenging year for many reasons, the most pleasing, being the beginning of our emergence from the Covid pandemic restrictions. Let's hope and pray this continues. Connectivity and continuity of existing relationships with our family and friends, including former shipmates, will remain incredibly important as we emerge from the pandemic restrictions.

I'm pleased to see the important part that the TAA plays in facilitating membership connectivity. We must continue to look out for each other and do what we can to assist where necessary. That's what mates do! I want to congratulate our National President and his Executive for their hard work, leadership and ongoing commitment to our Association. Their dedication does not go unnoticed! BZ on another very successful year.

Reflecting on the past year, I also want to acknowledge the outstanding work our men and women of the ADF did in aiding civil authorities during floods and other catastrophes throughout our Nation and in our region. They continue to make us proud. I am also aware of the many strategic issues which potentially confront our nation and perhaps more pointedly, our ADF and RAN. There is much to be addressed in current strategic considerations driven by the changing geostrategic environment in our Indo Pacific. The Indo Pacific is our neighbourhood (our Navy backyard!) and we must pay attention to the detail in this area. I am struck by the number of important agendas currently being examined affecting our ADF capability. Key among these are:

- The Royal Commission into Defence and Veteran Suicide which delivered its interim Report to the Governor General on 11 August 2022. To date the Commission has received over 3,000 submissions and just over 240 witnesses have appeared at hearings.

- The Nuclear Powered Submarine Taskforce which was established to work closely with the UK and US over 18 months from September 2021 to identify the optimal pathway to acquire a conventionally armed nuclear powered submarine capability for the Royal Australian Navy. The outcome of the Taskforce is expected to be announced by the end of March 2023.

" We understand the unique nature of Naval service in defending our Nation "

- The Strategic Defence Review announced on 11 August 2022 which, as a result of accelerating changes in Australia's strategic environment, will examine force structure, force posture and preparedness, and investment prioritisation, to ensure Defence has the right capabilities to meet our growing strategic needs. This review has been managed by two independent leads: former Minister for Defence, Professor the Hon Stephen Smith and former Chief of the Defence Force, Air Chief Marshal Sir Angus Houston AK AFC (Ret'd). Professor Smith and Sir Angus are expected to deliver the Review and its recommendations to Government in early 2023.

- Defence has also recently signed a contract with Kongsberg to deliver the Naval Strike Missile (NSM) which will be fitted in our Hobart Class Destroyers and Anzac Class Frigates, replacing the ageing Harpoon anti ship missile in these ships from 2024.

This list is but a sample of the critical strategic issues facing our ADF and Navy nevertheless, key in all these initiatives for our Navy, is the retention and recruitment of Navy people. Our Navy has an enormous challenge right now to grow significantly to accommodate expected manpower requirements flowing from these initiatives. This is no trivial undertaking. Australia, like many other countries, has a skills shortage which is unlikely to be resolved in the short term. Our ADF needs to grow by 20,000 people over the next 17 years although this may increase further as new requirements for additional capability are identified and considered.

This is where we, as members of our Tingira Australia Association, have an opportunity to step up. We all know that 'Training is our Tradition', it is entrenched in our Association Motto. Our challenge, accordingly, must be to support our Navy in generating the Navy we need for our future.

As former serving members we understand the criticality of 'Navy People' in delivering Maritime capability to our island nation and we are well placed to be proactive among our networks in advocating for greater Navy people capability. We understand the unique nature of Naval service in defending our Nation. We understand the qualities needed for Naval service and the values that bind those who seek to serve at sea. Notions of pride in our service, professional excellence, and service to country spring to mind.

These are but a few of the benefits service brings to young men and women seeking to serve. Serving as a member of the RAN is an honourable vocation that benefits not only the individual but our Nation. It is important those of us who have experienced this service make the case for those who follow.

Our Navy needs our help in demonstrating the importance of Naval service to our nation and I encourage you all to do what you can to assist.

CHAIRMAN'S REPORT

Lance Ker
Chairman
Tingira Australia Assoc

OUR PROUD ASSOCIATION ...

A decade has passed since we gathered at Leeuwin Barracks, East Fremantle, to celebrate the 50-year 2010 JR Reunion, and to christen the new Junior Recruit Memorial at the ceremonial front gate of the establishment.

It was a great reunion, with many hundreds of former Navy Junior Recruits with their partners, reuniting and reliving their past days when they were young 15-year-old sailors commencing their new navy career. Walking over those sacred grounds of the Leeuwin military base back, certainly gave many of us a strong feeling of ownership and pride in the Leeuwin establishment and the Junior Recruit Training Scheme, this is where our navy days commenced. Many of us also fell in love with Fremantle and Western Australia.

At that five day 2010 Reunion, several former JRs floated a few ideas, one group, Alan Rodgers, Russ Crane, Mark Lee, and Chris Perrin, took an idea to the next level, to form the Tingira Australia Association.

On the first day of January 2011, the Tingira Australia Association was registered and from that day onwards those lads have done us all proud. They have reunited so many of us via a new emerging technology from 2011. Email and the internet webpage, were the worlds new emerging technologies along with a communication device called the iPhone, which changed the world for most of us as we know it today.

Communication would become the strength and success of the associations future. To reach out and broaden the Tingira message to over 13,000 navy Tingira Boys that passed through those HMAS Leeuwin gates as Junior Recruits. The Tingira website and the quarterly magazine, VOICEpipe, were to become a very important asset of the association from the very start.

Since 2009 VOICEpipe magazine has been able to keep us all on the same ship of 'Tingira' via these internet communication systems, and today along with the addition of social media sites our communications stand tall as some of the best at past navy association levels by far. A huge BZ to our editorial team that bring the words via thousands of keystrokes and collate pages on these mediums.

Late last year the Tingira Secretary requested the National Tingira Committee commit to the next five-year Strategic Plan for the association. I scratched my head for a while, I knew one thing, the Secretary had announced that he is about to 'move on' after this stint of 14 years in the chair and on the keyboards. We as a committee certainly knew that we are going to be faced with change, probably sooner rather than later, this fate is in our hands to rearrange the shape of our future days.

The 'Tingira Team' all contributed to the Strategic Plan and another great document was produced. With some 'grand vision' thinking and light at the end of the tunnel, we feel we are in good shape to move forward after the next election in the first quarter of 2024

" Communication would become the strength and success of the association, to broaden the message to over 13,000 navy Tingira Boys that passed through those HMAS Leeuwin gates as Junior Recruits

However, Secretary Mark Lee, will not be replaced overnight. His contribution from the start-up days, his creative visionary and continued input has been huge and most commendable. Mark and the first three committees over the decade have produced a great foundation for us to carry on. I'm sure that Alan Rodgers, Russ Crane, Mark Lee, and Chris Perrin, would love to see Tingira navigate its way forward, in positive directions continuing to grow and prosper towards the next Tingira generation. Our President, Brad Murphy, is also very much part of this new generation; as the ships captain setting the example and navigating the course.

And so who is that generation? I am one of many that hope the Navy can regenerate in the name TINGIRA into possible future training models of today's RAN. Be that a ship or an establishment; that would then become our new Tingira backbone. Those days are in front of us, and let's hope the long-awaited Defence Review due to be delivered soon, may navigate a new course for the association.

Today we all stand proud of what we do each year with Tingira. As Chairman I put all members on notice we need some new heads around the committee table in 2024, and a new Secretary to carry on the good work of the association is of the utmost importance.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Brad Murphy OAM
President
Tingira Australia Assoc

CAMARADERIE IS OUR MATESHIP ...

The last few years have challenged us individually, as communities, nationally, and globally.

I know I certainly drew on the strengths that were fostered in me during our early careers at HMAS Leeuwin to get me through these times and to lead my various teams in their response to the challenges resulting from the pandemic. I don't think we often enough draw upon our memories of the camaraderie and mateship that was our rock when we gathered as young men to start a new journey into the world in our naval careers and what would ultimately follow.

All too often I see reference to veterans in relation to being broken and the focus on DVA entitlements/compensation rather than celebrating the strengths and courage that resulted from our early teachings, morals, values, the value of mateship, family, and community. I have met so many JR's who have achieved great things in their lives from our humble beginnings.

My role today as a General Practitioner with a focus on veteran health, gives me the opportunity of engaging with veterans across the years and three forces to witness much more than broken souls but rather strong individuals with much to offer our community during these troubled times. We need to draw upon these strengths, build our resilience and lead our families and communities.

We have seen that from the navy ranks of young men who left school before completing high school, that we could rise to realise our full potential and this is no more evident than in the example of VADM Russ Crane AO, RAN (Retd) who from a 16-year-old boy grew to lead the entire Naval force 2008-11 - no mean feat to be sure. Russ would be the first to remind us of so many others who have taken the opportunities afforded us to achieve potential many would have thought beyond us - but this is not the case then nor now.

This was further highlighted to me recently when we had a small but powerful gathering of the 74th intake in Bundaberg in February. Combined with an opening of a new conference centre veteran wing at my GP practice by VADM Crane - Russ took an opportunity to reflect on journeys we have all been on. The mateship that endures even when it is often so many years in between meetings - our relationships and commitment to one another transcends these time challenges to see us rally to support one another - you can't buy this strength and support, and you also can't explain this to those without lived experience. I for one am so very proud to belong to such a unique and powerful group of Tingira mates and would do it all over again in a heartbeat.

" The mateship that endures even when it is often so many years in between meetings - our relationships and commitment to one another transcends these time challenges to see us rally to support one another - you cant buy this strength and support, and you also cant explain this to those without lived experience

So let's not miss opportunities to gather and reignite these friendships and to support one another when the opportunities present - this is the true strength of the Tingira Spirit and this must not be lost at all costs.

I share a dream of seeing the Royal Australian Navy utilise the Tingira spirit, moving forward in some manner lest we risk losing this to history as we second generation of Tingira Boys grow older and our numbers reduce.

TAA has been a tremendous opportunity to embrace and reunite our ranks and it is crucial to our success that we recruit both to our membership and to our organisational structure and strength in bolstering future national committee members and hands on the ground to keep us gathering and promoting as the Patron and Chairman both call out in this 2022 annual report, our values are the future. This is a "Call to Hands" and we need to recruit some of the strength within the membership to ensure our ongoing success; promotion to the Chief of Navy and establishments, that the Tingira strengths are most worthy of keeping core to all things Navy, especially the training division.

BZ to our National Tingira Committee, it's not easy on any committee these days and they just get the job done, with no fuss, it's a pleasure to lead this team, thank you. And our sponsors, advertisers and supporters, we would not be here without you, thank you.

We are planning the opportunity to celebrate our adventures together and onwards at our next planned reunion in November 2025. The last opportunity was robbed from us but it is within our strengths and resolve to make this happen this time with our combined commitment and support. Future announcement later this year of 2025 JR Reunion..

SINGING FROM OUR SONGBOOK ...

Tingira Patron, Russ Crane, makes a good point in his annual report page, that we can make a difference for today's navy preaching the good word of our past navy life today here at Tingira.

Just being a member, wearing the tie and lapel pin, it flags your connection to others of our association. Your spirit is on display and proud, and you are prepared to talk navy to who ever, whenever. The wife may say she has heard it all before, and that's a good thing. We need to keep our message alive in the times ahead especially when in the presence of younger members of our community of what navy was, is and can be to those who serve.

In many of my recent transcripts that I have completed over the past few years I often ask people I interview that most important question, what attracted them to join the navy?

Russ Crane for example, followed his brother into the sea cadet movement on the Gold Coast in his very young teenage years, and was hooked, they both joined as JRs. Old Bill Taylor really cracked me up; after navy recruiting attended the school at Mt Macedon, he went home and showed his former British army father his homework drawings of sailors with groovy bell bottom trousers, "I'm gonna be one of those one day dad" Bill told his blushing father!

It's funny where it starts. My own story is no different - we had a boy in our school who wasn't so bright, he joined Leeuwin and made front page of local paper; six boys joined over the next three months from our school, that's good recruiting!

And the one that really blew me away last year; present day serving RAN Captain Ben Hissink, was a young boy at school who got the lucky nod to be air lifted 20 feet into a Wessex helicopter when it visited his school of 16 pupils on the South Coast. Ben was hooked, and so were others. Nine of the 16 students from that small NSW school joined the ADF over the following years, including his little brother who was a navy doctor for many years.

Russ Crane is right; we need to keep singing our old tried and true navy song, get over the politics of the day and just send positive messages to the young people around us, that we are proud to have served and are better people for the experience, that's most of us I am speaking for.

As for Tingira, we too are in the same boat. We will always welcome new recruits, former JRs or interested associates. We still manage to attract and find new members each month who know nothing about the Tingira Australia Association as we go into our 13th year. Social media is still attracting new players as we mature into our vintage years, and that's a good thing.

On the year that was 2022: two big highlights, the presentation in WA of the Stonehaven Medal to Jack and Anita Strong and the book launch for Bill Taylor, HMAS Cerberus JRTS.

"My proudest moments was to shake Bills hand and give him his book, this was a real 'Team Tingira' effort from the keyboards of many"

The stories around this Stonehaven award just get better each year. Many of our boys continue to go on in life after their navy days. Making good impressions on the people around themselves and as always, aim for excellence as their main drive and devotion to their cause. I expect the 2023 Stonehaven winner will be no different than previous winners, with a great story to be told. Bill Taylor told me a story that just kept me awake most nights for six months and I had to write it for him and his other shipmates. One of my proudest moments was to shake Bills hand and give him his JRTS book, this was a real 'Team Tingira' effort from the keyboards of many.

I look forward to another year that will again be busy times for our National Tingira Committee. As we continue to work with other associations to lay future foundations for Tingira. To nature more pathways with naval members and continue to march proudly with our banner nationally on Anzac Day.

Life is always good for 'Tingira Boys' as we continue to sing from our songbook!

Due to the ongoing on again and off again COVID restrictions, the quarterly meetings became one 'continuous' open book' meeting with the Secretary's desk 'open at all times' for the committee to put motions and conduct the business of the association day to day.

Secretary produced a detailed 'informative' document on the first day of each month, for the committee to digest and act upon the action items as required.

It is hoped that 2023 will continue to provide a date and place for us to meet at some stage during the year.

Annual General Meeting was conducted within the first six months of 2023, at the Emden Gun, Hyde park, Sydney.

Next election for new National Committee will be conducted at the 2024 AGM.

ACCOUNTANTS NOTE

Notes to the Financial Statements

TINGIRA AUSTRALIA ASSOCIATION INC. For the year ended 31 December 2022

Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

The financial statements are special purpose financial statements prepared in order to satisfy the financial reporting requirements of the Associations Incorporation Act New South Wales . The committee has determined that the association is not a reporting entity.

The financial statements have been prepared on an accruals basis and are based on historic costs and do not take into account changing money values or, except where stated specifically, current valuations of non-current assets.

The following significant accounting policies, which are consistent with the previous period unless stated otherwise, have been adopted in the preparation of these financial statements.

Income Tax

The Association is of the opinion that it is exempt and not subject to income tax .

Property, Plant and Equipment (PPE)

Leasehold improvements and office equipment are carried at cost less, where applicable, any accumulated depreciation.

The depreciable amount of all PPE is depreciated over the useful lives of the assets to the association commencing from the time the asset is held ready for use.

Leasehold improvements are amortised over the shorter of either the unexpired period of the lease or the estimated useful lives of the improvements.

Impairment of Assets

At the end of each reporting period, the committee reviews the carrying amounts of its tangible and intangible assets to determine whether there is any indication that those assets have been impaired. If such an indication exists, an impairment test is carried out on the asset by comparing the recoverable amount of the asset, being the higher of the asset's fair value less costs to sell and value in use, to the asset's carrying amount. Any excess of the asset's carrying amount over its recoverable amount is recognised in the income and expenditure statement.

Employee Provisions

Provision is made for the association's liability for employee benefits arising from services rendered by employees to the end of the reporting period. Employee provisions have been measured at the amounts expected to be paid when the liability is settled.

Provisions - Are recognised when the association has a legal or constructive obligation, as a result of past events, for which it is probable that an outflow of economic benefits will result and that out flow can be reliably measured. Provisions are measured at the best estimate of the amounts required to settle the obligation at the end of the reporting period.

Cash on Hand - Includes cash on hand, deposits held at call with banks, and other short-term highly liquid investments with original maturities of three months or less.

Accounts Receivable and Other Debtors include amounts due from members as well as amounts receivable from donors. Receivables expected to be collected within 12 months of the end of the reporting period are classified as current assets. All other receivables are classified as non-current assets.

Revenue and Other Income - Is measured at the fair value of the consideration received or receivable after taking into account any trade discounts and volume rebates allowed. For this purpose, deferred consideration is not discounted to present values when recognising revenue.

Interest revenue is recognised using the effective interest method, which for floating rate financial assets is the rate inherent in the instrument. Dividend revenue is recognised when the right to receive a dividend has been established.

Grant and donation income is recognised when the entity obtains control over the funds, which is generally at the time of receipt.

If conditions are attached to the grant that must be satisfied before the association is eligible to receive the contribution, recognition of the grant as revenue will be deferred until those conditions are satisfied.

All revenue is stated net of the amount of goods and services tax.

Leases - Of PPE, where substantially all the risks and benefits incidental to the ownership of the asset (but not the legal ownership) are transferred to the association, are classified as finance leases.

Finance leases are capitalised by recording an asset and a liability at the lower of the amounts equal to the fair value of the leased property or the present value of the minimum lease payments, including any guaranteed residual values. Lease payments are allocated between the reduction of the lease liability and the lease interest expense for that period.

Leased assets are depreciated on a straight-line basis over the shorter of their estimated useful lives or the lease term. Lease payments for operating leases, where substantially all the risks and benefits remain with the lessor, are charged as expenses in the periods in which they are incurred.

Goods and Services Tax (GST) - Revenues, expenses and assets are recognised net of the amount of GST, except where the amount of GST incurred is not recoverable from the Australian Taxation Office (ATO). Receivables and payables are stated inclusive of the amount of GST receivable or payable. The net amount of GST recoverable from, or payable to, the ATO is included with other receivables or payables in the assets and liabilities statement.

Financial Assets Investments in financial assets are initially recognised at cost, which includes transaction costs, and are subsequently measured at fair value, which is equivalent to their market bid price at the end of the reporting period. Movements in fair value are recognised through an equity reserve.

Accounts Payable and Other Payables - Represent the liability outstanding at the end of the reporting period for goods and services received by the association during the reporting period that remain unpaid. The balance is recognised as a current liability with the amounts normally paid within 30 days of recognition of the liability.
